Have got over on the Indiana side principal difrates will not pay, when we take into view the greatthroughout the British Empire, and of those of the United States. two of 'em sharpen their noses on the pavement, and engage in mortal combat; one rushed at his neighbor, struck him between the eyes, split him from end to end; cart came along, run over the two halves, cut them into hams and shoulders in a j.ffy-requiescat and the best horses in the United States. The people live principally on bread made of corn; whiskey ditto; and hog prepared in various barbarous ways. They give away wiliskey and sell cold water. The darkies are mostly slaves; they nail horseshoes over their doors to keep away the witches, indulge in parti colored hats in the most superlative degree of dilapidation; go barefooted, and have large apertures "in puppes pantalooni." It is a perfect treat to watch their entertaining performances. At the hotel the allowance is fourteen niggers to each guest, and as each one seems to be possessed of the peculiar idea that his province is to do nothing at all with as many flourishes as possible, the confusion that follows is far from being devoid of entertainment. They never bring you anything you call for; if you call for chicken, you will probably get corn beef and cabbage; if you want roast beef, they will assuredly bring you apple dumplings; ask for sweet potatoes, and you'll get fried eggs; send for corn bread, and you are sure to obtain boiled pork; ring the hell for a boot-jack, and you'll get a hand-sled And when you want to retire for the night, instead of providing you with a pair of slippers and a candle, the chances are ten to one the attendant sable angel will give you a red flannel shirt, a shot gun, a dask of whiskey, three boiled eggs, and a pair of smoothing irons. There is, however, one redeeming feature about the darkies, they won't live in the same country with Irishmen. They can live with hogs, have half a dozen shoats at the dinner table, a litter of pigs in the family bed, but they can't abide Irish. The slaves are, as may be imagined, of various colors, ranging from the hue of the beautiful yellow envelope of the Postoffice Department to that of the blackest ink that ever indites a superscription thereon. The theory of "woman's rights" is in practical operation among them; the men cook, set the table, clean up the dishes, do the washing, and spank the babies, while their blacker halves hoe corn, chop wood, go to market, and "run wid der

Council of the Know-Nothing Order, is to be held in this city to-day. In spite of the severe secrecy of kes at the foundation of disease and releases the vital organs their movements, this fact has transpired; and with from its grasp. it comes the additional intelligence that one Reverend Mr. Evans is present as representative of the "Grand National Council of Thirteen," of which Barker of New York is President. This emissary brings along a rebundant supply of the venom of intolerance, wherewith to inoculate the brethern in this region, and to corrupt the native generosity of the Virginia character. He imports also a copious supply of passwords and other cabalistic signs, and is in every way Feeders, also, to Solar, Camphene Lamps, Lanterns, &c. equipped for the work of drill sergeant and hierophant. Is it not a shame that such creatures should come here, and, under cover of darkness, deposit the poison of intolerance and proscription on the soil which Jefferson has consecrated to civil liberty and to freedom of conscience? The movements of the Order are directed and controlled by a cabal in New York, ders. and thus should Know-Nothingism triumph in this State, the Government of Virginia will be the creature of the "Council of Thirteen." Esteeming themthemselves competent to the management of their own affairs, Virginians have been proverbially jealous of foreign influence; nor will they now submit to the usurpation of this conclave of New York Know-Nothings. The sentiment of State-sovereignty and the pride of personal independence are equally outraged by the attempt thus to subjugate us. Richmond Enquirer, 30th ult.
